Editorial Review

From the Author

"Your intellect is the fundamental attachment between you and God; The miraculous merits which make you yourself; are the very traits of God himself; and it is your end as a wizard, witch or necromancer to use them in his name and for a just cause. From the moment of creation, you are a daydreamer; you imagine, think and never stop fantasizing, just as a child should. , As you grow, your guardians force you to acknowledge "their reality"; slowly killing the wizard inside you. This trickery was invented by mystery destroyers and magic murderers, and the only way to defeat it, is if we will all return to our childhood state, day dreaming and fantasizing." -(Osari the Wise; 1907.)

"The peaceful equilibrium between magic, logic, fairness and common practicality was intermitted by the Catholic cathedral in the early 500s; a sorcerer will fear teaching the magical lessons of his pack to his kin, from fear of criminal prosecution by the church. A mother will fear to mend or charm for fear of hanging from a gibbet as a Wiccan, whose hour had come.

Little by little, the privileges of magic will be defeated by the overflow of human reason in ages to come, magic will be forgotten, and the good will of God will no longer be accounted for; until, one day, it shall reoccur.

For the bewilderment of the Catholics, Israelites and the Greeks, God's angels shall come down upon us with both fury and fondness, the righteous shall prosper, and the evil shall fall..." - Osari the Wise, 1907.
