Apparently, you can catch a train to hell, where at least one punishment consists of being tattooed with negative phrases against your wishes. It's these details that make Hand's Unearthly series continuously interesting. Heroine Clara, now a college freshman, once again puzzles through a destiny-tied vision and learns her friend Angela's vision and that of angel-hunk Christian connect. Although this final outing seems a bit tired, fans will surely want to follow Clara to hell and back as well as learn why her new teletransporting talent continuously leads her to the barn of cast-off human paramour Tucker. Buy accordingly. Grades 7-10. --Karen Cruze

From the Back Cover

The past few years held more surprises than part-angel Clara Gardner ever could have anticipated. Yet through the dizzying high of first love to the agonizing low of losing someone close to her, the one thing she could no longer deny was that she was never meant to have a normal life.

Since discovering the special role she plays among the other angel-bloods, Clara has been determined to protect Tucker Avery from the evil that follows her . . . even if it means breaking both their hearts. Leaving town seemed like the best option, so she's headed back to California—and so is Christian Prescott, the irresistible boy from the vision that started her on this journey in the first place.

As Clara makes her way in a world that is frighteningly new, she discovers that the fallen angel who attacked her is watching her every move. And he's not the only one. . . . With the battle against the Black Wings looming, Clara knows she must finally fulfill her destiny. But it won't come without sacrifices and betrayal.

In the riveting finale of the Unearthly series, Clara must choose her fate once and for all.
